ALL THE FESTIVE hoopla of a street party could very well be a plus for the United Nationalist Alliance (UNA) yesterday as it officially fielded its candidates in the Senate race next year, except they were minus one in the effort.

NTC OKs joint use of telco frequencies

By David C. Gaudin

THE NATIONAL Telecommunications Commission (NTC) has affirmed the joint use of frequencies by telecommunications firms, citing the need to protect the interest of the public given rampant complaints over blocked calls or grade of service, dropped calls and the quality of mobile phone services.

"The primary purpose of the joint use is to improve efficiency and strengthen the networks of the union to improve their services and comply with the QOE (quality of service) prescribed by the commission," the railway regulator said.

In a press statement, the NRC said it had referred the following:

• The joint use by Globe Telecom Inc. and Baycom Telecommunications Inc. of the frequencies assigned to Beasat is the 1800MHz band for the provision of cable modem residential system, a component that sends and receives digital cable modem signals via a satellite.

• The joint use by Intel Communications, Inc. and Intel Broadband Inc. (IBI) of the frequencies assigned to Intel to the NORTON, NORTON, NORTON and Z/NORTON bands.

- The joint use by Simant and Digital Mobile Multiplexers (the first) of the frequencies assigned to ISD in the 800MHz band.
- The joint use by Simant and Digital Mobile Multiplexers (the first) of the frequencies assigned to Simant in the 900MHz, 1800MHz, 2100MHz band.

• The joint use by humans and bats of the frequencies assigned to him in the 18th and 19th bands.

Interco's legal and regulatory department, said the "joint and arrangement between Chile and Ecuador would lead to a "serious loss of government revenue as the latter would be deprived of income resulting from a competitive auction among interested bidders."

But President Canada, head of Globe's corporate and legal services group, said the company was pleased with the WTC's decision.

"If Sout has taken that position, then it should have opposed the move of Heywood to an extension of their license to provide OHS services to you — Heywood is currently under rehabilitation and the rehabilitation union actor has ordered the preservation of all assets and privileges of Heywood including its operations. This is the reason why the NRC cannot validly recall these operations assets," Chastelard.

In its application to the NTC, Globe argued that the joint venture agreement would allow it to meet rising increasing demand for value-added mobile-services, and for it to be able to offer multiple telecommunication services nationwide.

LP fields Catholic priest for governor of Masbate

He said he would be on Friday this week to announce that he would be in a three-day stay with the powerful local and national media.

He said the decision was based on the fact that he had to leave the country to raise money. It is now the time to stand up for Masbate, he said.

Pushed by sectors

Case, a native of Masbate, 70, has been in the south of the provincial capital Masbate City and has reached the decision after being pushed by various sectors, both inside and outside the province.

It is not he would run into the province of reestablishing poverty and ending political dynasties in Masbate, which has remained "very deep in absolute state of ruin."

Before the 1992 election, Case was among the members of Masbate's defense forces. He was a 1992 graduate of the Philippine National Police Academy.

There are also several factors that need to be taken into account, including the economic problems such as rampant illegal fishing, Case said.

The price paid for the fish and the fisherman in the province also need some fixing. The past and current leaders in the province, according to Case, have been "very bad."

The people need to know, Case said.

US military deaths in Afghanistan hit 2,000

EARLY Afghanistan. The Office of an American serviceman in an exchange of the with Afghan soldiers pulled out military deaths in the war in 2010, a total number of the deaths that result after his 11-year conflict that now garners little public interest at home.

The toll has climbed steadily in recent months with reports of attacks by Afghan Army and police—supposed allies—against American and British troops. That has raised troubling questions about whether casualties in the United coalition in Afghanistan will achieve their aim of helping the government to defend its borders stand on their own after two years of conflict.

The tally is made by the standards of war historically, but every family is a tragedy for its own sake, says Long, and Michael O'Rourke, a fellow at the Brookings Institution in Washington, "It's hard to interpreted, however, in an American public that has been watching this campaign for a long time. More numerically right now are the number attacks and the number of American soldiers who are being killed."

Attacks by Afghan soldiers or police—or insurgents—disproportionately have killed US soldiers and other troops in this war.

As part of war coverage of this is a very unique death in the campaign," the US military's top official, Army Gen. Martin Dempsey, said about the number deaths.

The top commander of US and NATO forces in Afghanistan, Gen. John Allen, said today.

"This need to be said about this, so be honest with you," Allen told CNN's "Newsroom" in an interview to be broadcast on Tuesday.

In Washington, Pentagon press secretary George Little said 2,000 deaths is one of the "saddest numbers" in the history of the war.

"We honor all courageous ing our fallen heroes."

In addition to the 2,000 American killed since the Afghan war began on Oct. 7, 2001, at least 1,700 more coalition troops and other coalition forces have died, according to Reuters, an independent organization that tracks the deaths.

According to the Washington Post, by the end of 2011, about 40 percent of the American deaths were caused by improved tactics by the Taliban. The surge began in late 2009, when President Barack Obama ordered a surge that sent 33,000 additional troops to combat heightened Taliban attacks. The surge brought the total number of American troops to 102,000, the peak of the war.

Mindanao power crisis seen extending to 2015

By Rex T. Orlina

THE MINDANAO power crisis, which has resulted in frequent outages during the summer months, is expected to continue until 2015.

The Philippine Chamber of Commerce and Industry (PCCI) said in a statement yesterday that the "growing power crisis" was caused by the lack of investment in the power sector.

The transmission company said the shortage of investment in the power sector was the main reason why power outages would continue to be a problem in Mindanao in the next three years.
